VOLUME III.

FRANKFORT, KY., JANUARY 31, 1880.

NUMBER 19

Regular attendants of the South Franklin Baptist Church complain of bad conduct on the part of some bad boys. The attention of the proper authorities is called thereto.

The Capital Gazette, Ben. Deering, editor, made its first appearance in this city Wednesday, at noon. It is printed on good paper, from new type, and is newsy. We welcome Mr. Deering to Frankfort, and heartily wish him unmeasured prosperity in his new enterprise.

The Blue-Grass Temperance Convention, Sidney French, President, will convene in Harrodsburg on the 17th day of February, and continue in session three days. Next to the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, of Kentucky, the meetings of this Convention are the largest, as they are the most important and interesting, of any in the State. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all Good Templars in Kentucky. Reduced rates on railroads have been secured for delegates and visitors, the good people of Harrodsburg will have their latchstrings on the outside, and a good time is promised to all who attend.

A large and enthusiastic river meeting was held at the court-house last Saturday night, at which resolutions were offered, inviting immigration to the State and expressive of the gratification of our citizens at the passage of the Hord river bill. Speeches were made by Senators Halbert, Mitchell, Berry, Gathright, and Blackburn, the latter giving his reasons for having opposed the bill. Speeches were also made by Representatives White and EverSOLE, Hon. David Pryse, Judge Craddock, Col. L. E. Harvie, Alex. G. Brawner, Esq., Jas. Andrew Scott, Esq., and Col. J. P. Pryor. The last named gentleman nominated Judge Hord for Governor, which nomination seemed to accord with the feelings of a majority of those present, as it was loudly applauded. Judge Hord was called for, but was too modest to respond in a lengthy speech, simply remarking that he did not desire the office of Governor, as he had no political aspirations. Those of the gentlemen who addressed the meeting, who were from the mountains, assured the assemblage that the honorable Representative from Franklin would always have a warm place in the hearts of their people. The meeting did not adjourn until a late hour, and every speaker was listened to with interest.

Y. L. C. C.

Another delightful entertainment was given at Graham's Academy of Music on Tuesday night, by the Young Ladies' Cooking Club. The attendance was quite large, notwithstanding there were attractions at several other places at the same time. Only a few of our town boys were present—say six or eight—but there were very many members of the Legislature and quite a number of strangers in attendance.

Among the lady visitors present were Miss Bettie Holman, Louisville, Miss Fan nie Mott, Paducah, Miss Bettie Theobald, Louisville, Miss Maggie Bosworth, Mt. Sterling, Miss Mollie Guthrie, Lawrenceburg, Miss Carithers, Shelbyville, and Miss Howard, Georgetown.

The music was kindly furnished by Prof. Wayland Graham, Miss Kate Sanders, and Miss Kate Meriwether, to the time of which the young people danced till a late hour.

The supper was a grand affair, and we need scarcely add, was much enjoyed by all present. The table was beautifully and tastefully arranged, reflecting great credit on the officers and members of the Y. L. C. C. The whole affair was most enjoyable, and everybody was loud in praises of the girls who could cook such ices as were served Tuesday night.

The following are the changes in Internal Revenue officers, to take effect February 1st, 1880, viz.:

Storekeepers—R. W. Hutchcraft, from W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 4, to G. G. White, Paris.

S. R. Smith, from Jno. Cochran & Co., No. 37, to W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 4.

C. C. Furr, from E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Co., No. 113, to Labrot & Graham, No. 52.

John J. Quin, from J. N. Blakemore, No. 96, to E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Co., No. 113.

Alex. T. Todd, from J. & J. M. Saffell, No. 91, to W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 106.

W. H. Gray, from W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 106, to J. & J. M. Saffell, No. 91.

George R. Dunlap, from Headley & Peck, No. 103, to John Cochran & Co., No. 37.

Jacob Bashford, from H. C. Clay & Co., to J. N. Blakemore, No. 96.

Jno. M. Jameson from Labrot & Graham, No. 52, to Bowen & Moore.

Gangers—H. C. Rodenbaugh, to W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 4, and W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 106.

S. Thompson, to Jno. Cochran & Co., No. 37, J. N. Blakemore, No. 96, and Labrot & Graham, No. 52.

Jos. H. Bailey, to E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Co., No. 113, and J. & J. M. Saffell, No. 91.

J. B. Lewis, to Wm. Tarr & Co., No. 1, and Mullins & Crigler.

S. C. Cardwell, to J. Vanarsdell, Dan. Moore, Philip Jordan, and J. R. Hugley.

Bagdad.

I must congratulate you on the return to your spicy columns of my favorite correspondent, Miss Belle Pike. She is worth them all; she is a woman after my own heart. Although she is no longer a Miss, yet she writes with a zest truly invigorating. She gave a faithful description of the party near here, at which Will, Gran led the music, and it is too true that the members of the various churches did shake the light fantastic toe.

Very unlike North Benson is our station. Here we have sobriety. Old friend Dock Radford's business is gone, and this place is too enlightened to become a Sodom or Gomorrah.

I also second Miss Belle's efforts in regard to the subject of improvements. We people out here feel as though we were fifty miles from the State Capital, when, in reality, we are only fourteen miles away. Our people will meet them at the county line with a 'pike, or a mile beyond, if necessary. We want to be in closer proximity to the State Capital. It is only three miles to Jackson ville, and only nine and a half from there to Frankfort, and with a good road, our farmers could haul all their products to your city. Count me a man in on that subject.

Rev. Mr. Riley, a Baptist minister of much force and talent, has been preaching very acceptably during last week. His congregations have been large and attentive. Johnny Evans, Wm. Botts and Joe Combs are all pupils of Dick Evans, studying telegraphy.

We have four flourishing merchants here, and the best college in the State. It is conducted by Prof. Nunn and his wife, both of whom are highly qualified for the position they occupy.

Mr. Dick Evans' new house has just been completed, and we expect several others to be erected during the spring and summer.

[Would be glad to hear from Shelly again—Ed.]

WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT.

CLAUDE BUCKLEY.

GEO. A. LEWIS.

BUCKLEY & LEWIS,

Editors and Publishers.

FRANKFORT, JANUARY 31, 1880.

No temperance meeting to-night; but to-morrow afternoon there will be one at the court-house, at three o'clock.

Mr. Jas. M. Todd has had a live butterfly on exhibition this week. Butterflies in January are almost as rare as frosts in July.

A new blacksmith shop has been erected this week on the site of the one that was burned two or three months ago at the head of Main street.

Mr. Jos. H. Bailey, of this city, has recently been appointed a U. S. Gauger, and will enter upon the duties of his office next Monday. A good appointment.

Rev. Green Clay Smith will preach at the Christian Church to-morrow evening, at 7 o'clock. Usual morning services by the pastor. Seats are free and everybody is invited.

Dr. E. E. Hume and wife, of Anderson county, who had been visiting relatives in this city for several days, started home Tuesday afternoon in a buggy, and when a few miles from Frankfort the horse began kicking and started to run. Mrs. Hume was thrown out, and her clothes catching on the step, she was dragged some distance, tearing her clothing to pieces and bruising her considerably. Beyond this no serious damage was done.

Messrs Morris & Co., formerly of Georgetown, will open a first-class merchant tailoring establishment, on Monday next, in Dr. Mill's old stand, on Main street, where the best goods in their line can constantly be found. No cheap or worthless goods will be handled by them, and gentlemen leaving orders will be sure to get a bargain. Mr. A. G. Alstrom, formerly of this city, is a member of this firm, and his old friends will be glad to welcome him home, and leave their orders for a neat fitting suit. Read their advertisement in another column.

A written examination in all the studies has just been concluded at the Public School. The questions were rather difficult for this time in the year, but a large majority came through with flying colors, having obtained excellent averages. The Public School is in fine condition, and increasing rapidly in numbers, forty one new pupils being the increase during the present month. The second session of five months begins next Monday. Now, we wish to say this to you, scholars: Life is short; the years you may go to school are few; therefore be diligent, punctual and make the most of the splendid advantages you now enjoy.

WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT.

FRANKFORT, JANUARY 31, 1880.

Next Monday is County Court-day.

What was Bob when the light went out?

The City Council will meet in regular session next Tuesday night.

Mr. John C. Hawkins bought the farm of Mr. O. S. Walcutt last Tuesday for $2,600 cash.

Major Stanton's "quack medicine" draws well. It drew a good audience to Major Hall Tuesday night.

The nineteenth semi-annual session of the Kentucky Eclectic Institute will begin next Monday, February 2d.

There will be a temperance meeting at Benson Depot at two o'clock, p.m., on the second Sunday in next month.

There will be a temperance mass meeting at the court-house to-morrow afternoon, at three o'clock. Let everybody turn out.

Messrs. John Cochran & Co. have added 50 bushels to the capacity of their distillery. They are now mashing 150 bushels per day.

Judge Wm. Lindsay has purchased the residence of the late Mrs. Governor Letcher, on the corner of Washington and Wapping streets, for $4,775.

Mr. H. R. Williams, the South Side livery man, has the finest carriage in the State. He also has a beautiful span of gray horses to pull it.

Mr. Jas. Ware and Miss Emma Macey, of Versailles, eloped on Friday of last week, went to Cincinnati, had the nuptial knot tied, and returned home.

The mild weather of the present winter has been acceptable to everybody but the printers. They haven't had a chance to use the stereotyped "Beautiful Snow."

Messrs. W. A. Gaines & Co. will shortly begin the erection of a new warehouse upon a lot adjoining the Hermitage distillery premises, which they have recently purchased.

Read Mr. J. M. Wakefield's advertisement in this issue. Persons desiring to purchase anything in his line can find no more honest, fairer dealing man in the world to buy from than J. M. Wakefield.

Ladies who wear artificial teeth should be careful how they cry "fire!" The explosive force of the breath is likely to eject the store masticators, especially if the lady be hoarse. We have "no reference to allusions."

Mr. Addison James and Miss Fannie R. Coleman, a runaway couple from Mercer county, were married at the Capital Hotel, in this city, Tuesday afternoon, by Rev. Green Clay Smith, and left on the 2:40 train for Cincinnati.

We are grieved to announce the death of our young friend and fellow typist, Jas. E. Quin, which occurred in this city last night at nine o'clock. He had been sick but a short time with typhoid pneumonia, and although it was known that he was quite ill, his death was a great surprise to his many friends.

Judge W. H. Snead sold his cream-colored pony to a lady in Louisville, and with the proceeds of the sale has purchased a pair of white ponies from a gentleman in Ohio. They will arrive in a few days.

Mr. D. D. Spence resigned his position last week, as superintendent of the Kentucky River Mills, which place he has held ever since the mills were started. He is succeeded by Mr. H. H. Stephens, a man of forty years' experience in the business.

Miss Emma Hardin, of Keokuk, Iowa, and Mr. Royal Dewitt, of New York, were married at the Hardin House in Keokuk, on the 27th inst. Miss Hardin will be remembered as a charming young lady who recently spent some time in this city with her aunt, Mrs. Dr. Wilhoit.

One of the members of the House of Representatives who had been ill for several days, went to the Capitol Tuesday morning to attend to his duties, but had not been long in his seat when he fainted. A carriage was sent for and he was taken to his lodging. He is doing very well now.

News of the death of Mr. Duncan Campbell reached this city Tuesday. Mr. Campbell was a Kentuckian, but at the time of his death was a resident of Leadville, Colorado. He died of typhoid fever Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock. His remains will be brought here for interment.

Sidney French organized a Lodge of Good Templars at Bagdad Monday night, with forty charter members. He will lecture at Benson on the second Sunday in February, after which he will organize a Lodge of Good Templars. We hope our Benson readers will tell their friends of this appointment.

Won't the City Council do something for the city pumps at the meeting next Tuesday night? They are in a terrible condition and are in sad need of immediate attention. It's tolerably trying on the temperance people to have to struggle so hard for water when there is so much of it in our midst. Let us have good pumps and plenty of water.

The Hop.

Notwithstanding the exceedingly disagreeable state of the weather last night, the hop was well attended. Indeed, it was the largest and most brilliant of the series. There were many strangers present, both ladies and gentlemen, and many of our home girls who have not attended before this season.

The dresses worn by the ladies were exquisitely beautiful, and a close observation revealed the fact that there was not a dress in the ball-room that has been seen in public this winter. Their beauty and elegance were subjects of general remark, and it was conceded by all that such a display was witnessed but seldom, even in Frankfort—the gayest and most fashionable of all the gay cities in the South or West.

In order to allow the dancers to see Raymond's "Wolpert's Roost," the hour for beginning was postponed, and it was a quarter to eleven o'clock before the music brought the young people to their feet. When they got started, they seemed to enjoy it all the more on account of the delay, and "made up for lost time." The hop was a very decided success.

Next Monday the ground hog comes forth, and if he sees his shadow, we'll eat ice cream next summer.

In reporting the names last week of the officers elect of Frankfort Commandery, No. 4, K. T., the name of Sir W. S. Dehoney, Reporter, was inadvertently omitted. Mr. Dehoney was complimented by receiving the unanimous vote of the Commandery, and it is due a good officer and a gentleman to let the people know how he stands with his brethren with whom he is intimately associated.

Between two and three o'clock Sunday morning burglars attempted to enter the grocery store of Mr. Pat. Newman, on Market street, by breaking open the back door; but failing to effect an entrance there they went to the front door, broke a large hole in the glass, and entered, carrying off cigars and tobacco to the amount of fifty or sixty dollars. They were evidently after money, as the cash drawer was broken open, but it being empty they took only the articles mentioned. This is the second time this store has been burglarized within the last year. The moon was shining very brightly, and the deed must have been done while the policeman in charge of that part of town was at the other end of his beat.

There are old residents living in this city who are as ignorant of the names of the streets as if they were strangers. The City Council would do the people a lasting favor by having the names of the different streets painted and put up at every street corner, in a conspicuous place. It would not only be a great convenience to strangers, but to our citizens as well. It would also be a good idea to have the houses numbered—one hundred numbers to every square—commencing at the river with one, and running upwards on streets running east and west, and so with streets running north and south. If there are any public spirited men in the City Council, we hope they will bring this matter up at the meeting next Tuesday night, and discuss it thoroughly. Old togray has ruled in Frankfort too long already, and it is time that a spirit of enterprise and progress was evinced by our people. Let us be up with the times, even in small matters, and affairs of greater importance will shape themselves accordingly.

WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT.

Messrs. Congleton Brothers are erecting a new saw-mill on the lot adjoining the mill property of Messrs. Hatchitt & Ziegler.

The names of our streets should be posted conspicuously on every street corner, and every house should have a number over the front door.

The Young Men's Social Club gave a very enjoyable hop at Capital Hotel Wednesday night, in honor of some Lexington young ladies who are in the city on a visit to friends. The music was furnished by South's orchestra, and the "light fantastic" was kept up till towards the peep o' day.

Stranger.—"Where does Mr. Blank live?"

Citizen.—You know that street that the railroad is on? Well, you go to the second street north of that, turn to the left, go nearly two squares, and you will find his house the third or fourth from the corner of that street that runs by Chinn's coal scales."

S.—"Where are the coal scales?"

C.—"They are on the same street that the railroad is on, and near the railroad bridge."

S.—"Thank you. Now, will you have the goodness to tell me where the post-office is?"

C.—"It's on the first street south of the street that the railroad is on, about two or three squares from the arsenal."

S.—"I don't know where the arsenal is."

C.—"Do you know where the courthouse is?"

S.—"No."

C.—"Well, it's on the street running directly from the Wooden Bridge; you go to the first street north of the court-house, turn to the right, and a square and a half, or two squares will bring you to the post office."

S.—"Thank you, again. But, I say, why don't you people have your streets named and your houses numbered, so that a stranger can find the place he's looking for without stopping every man he meets to ask him where the penitentiary is located, or the railroad bridge, or some other landmark?"

C.—"Oh, the members of our City Council are old fogies, and they don't care a cuss whether a fellow can find his way or not."

North Benson.

Some day, when I come to town, I'll take a jaunt to Taylortown. I want to see an enterprising place once.

Master Willie Clarke and his sister returned from Lexington last week. Florence still totting two. Oh, the little angel, where was she?

Mr. Alphabet Stingers is so much engaged in his avocation of hooping flour barrels he has no time to devote to the hooping of the various swell-heads in our vicinity.

A. Jackson Hulett, late pedagogue at this place, has a new string to his bow. A youth from Jackson gave him Jesse, and A. J. vanquished the rancher and is now occupied boiling corn for his cow. Sighs life.

Unfortunately, Capt. Duane didn't go to town last Wednesday. The object of his heart's desire saw through the trick of returning with him, and desired to save him from mortification. The captain refuses now to be comforted.

The hop at Will. Fulton's last week was a most enjoyable event. They danced Feb. 1-1y all night, till broad daylight, and went home with the gals in the morning." Wm. Granville, as usual, had charge of the band. And Mr. Clarke, as usual, was vis-a-vis to the "little angel."

Some of our people think it curious how one of our most venerable citizens rode from Frankfort nearly all the way home and never discovered that his horse had left the bridle behind. I don't think it was strange at all.

At the head of Sleepy Hollow lives Brother Dan. Last week he gave us boys a big wood-chopping, and pumpkin pies for supper, after which the lassies began to roll in. Oh, it was a glorious event! Now, it so happened that a certain beautiful damsel was there, and she had two strings to her bow, and for love of this fair maiden did the cousins become wroth with each other, and did cast stones and other missiles at each, until Daniel came forth and re-buked them, which caused them to cease their racket, and all the multitude were amazed, and did prophesy.

I rather think Miss Belle Pike that was, Mrs. Belle Road that is, had better be attending to her twin babies, Stonewall and Victoria, or, getting ready for her early gardening, than to be running around to all the "break-downs" in the county and then writing about them. I do wonder if she takes the babies with her. But my main objection to her last ouingivng, is that she scandalized our station—North Benson!

Now I don't deny that some liquor (say a small quantity semi-occasionally) is drank here, but it is certainly not so bad as she represents. We don't drink for a livelihood, as Othello, or some other Ethiopian disciple, once said. I opine that Belle is just a little too smart; and some may say that she is not quite as modest or fastidious about her family affairs as she might be. The idea of any young family woman writing about "doublets" or twins, and all that, astounded everybody, and caused hundreds and thousands of ladies, young and old, to throw up their hands and exclaim "La, me! It really bangs Bob-tail!" In fine I am constrained to say, I oppose Miss Belle Pike that use to be, and Mrs. Turnpike that now is not. PETER SNODGRASS.
